Purpose and scope

Defines leave categories, annual entitlements, request workflow, carry-forward, public holidays, emergency leave, and notice-period rules.

All names, systems, processes, dates, limits, and examples in this document are fictional and exist only for the NovaTech Systems RAG knowledge-base exercise.

1. Leave Entitlements

Leave type	Annual entitlement	General use
Annual leave	18 days	Planned personal time, vacation, and rest
Sick leave	12 days	Illness, recovery, or medical needs
Casual leave	6 days	Short-notice personal matters and incidental needs

Leave balances are tracked on a calendar-year basis. Applicable statutory or company-declared public holidays are separate from the above leave balances.

2. Leave Request Procedure

1. Submit the request through the approved HR leave system, normally at least 3 working days before planned leave.
2. Select the leave category and requested dates.
3. Provide a brief operational handover when the absence affects active work.
4. The reporting manager reviews staffing and delivery impact and approves or declines the request.
5. After approval, the employee should ensure calendar availability and handover notes are updated.

Emergency leave

Emergency leave may be reported to the manager as soon as reasonably possible when advance submission is impractical. The employee should update the formal leave record when able.

3. Carry-forward and Expiry

Unused annual leave may be carried forward up to 10 days into the next calendar year. Carry-forward above this limit requires a documented HR exception. Sick leave and casual leave do not normally carry forward.

4. Public Holidays

NovaTech publishes an annual holiday calendar by applicable office/location. A public holiday falling during approved annual leave is not deducted as an annual-leave day when the employee is eligible for that holiday.

5. Leave During Notice Period

Employees serving notice must follow the normal approval process. Managers may decline discretionary leave when business continuity or knowledge-transfer requirements would be materially affected. Statutory or medically required leave is handled according to applicable law and HR guidance.

6. Manager Responsibilities

- Review requests promptly and consistently.
- Consider team coverage and critical deadlines without using leave approval as a substitute for workforce planning.
- Encourage employees to take reasonable rest.
- Escalate unusual or repeated attendance concerns to HR rather than creating informal exceptions.
